New York Empire Baseball is unique in its approach and the results that our players achieve. We rely on the latest research and video analysis to provide children with the highest level of skills and training that are available anywhere.

Our physics-based approach to hitting and pitching is unlike any other - and the methods that we use to teach are specifically geared to young players. Rather than practice bad habits over and over, we are focused on teaching proper mechanics in every aspect of the game - minimizing the chance of injury and maximizing the chance of success.

We're extremely positive and encouraging, and teach far more than hitting, fielding, pitching and running. We teach responsibility, respect, teamwork and decision making, in addition to helping young players in their mental approach - instilling a sense of confidence that is truly exceptional. Our focus is on work ethic - teaching children the correlation between hard work and success.
